FAQQ: What is an APK file? A: An Android Package Kit (APK for short) is the package file format used by the Android operating system for distributing and installing mobile applications. Just as Windows (PC) systems use a .exe to install software, Android does the same. Q: Why can CloudApks.com guarantee 100% APK safe? A: Whenever someone wants to download a CloudApks.com APK file, we will check the corresponding APK file on Google Play and allow the user to download it (of course, we will cache it on our server). If the APK file doesn't exist on Google Play, we'll search for it in our cache. Q: If I install a CloudApks.com APK, can I update the Play Store app? A: Yes, absolutely. The Play Store installs APKs that it downloads from Google's servers, and sideloading of a site like CloudApks.com goes through a very similar process, except that you are the only one downloading and starting the installation (sideloading). Once the Play Store finds a version of the app newer than the one you did, it will start an update. Q: What are the Android Application permissions? A: Apps require access to certain systems within your device. When you install an application, you are notified of all the permissions required to run that application.
